If the average worker had to pay for all the benefits he now receives as part of his job, his pay check would be reduced by more than one-fourth, says the Chamber of Commerce of the United States.

These benefits now average 27.9 per cent of employer payrolls. In terms of dollars and cents, this means that for every 27.9 per cent of employer payrolls. In terms of dollars and cents, this means that for every $100 in wages a worker is paid, his employer provides additional benefits averaging $27.90.

The figure includes not only the employer's portion of legally required programs, such as Social Security, unemployment insurance and workmen's compensation, but a wide variety of voluntary benefits. Chief among these are life, sickness, accident and hospitalization insurance, pensions, sick leave, vacations and holidays.

In a survey of 1,115 companies last year, the chamber found that they were paying an average of 98 cents per payroll-hour for employee benefits. This represents an increase of 330 per cent in benefits over 1949 and is 19 per cent higher than the 1967 figure. Fringe benefits are no longer "fringe," says the chamber.—Savannah (Ga.) Contributions to Public Pulse like to remind us from time to time of the ephemeral nature of journalism. Their message goes about like this: "They'll be wrapping fish tomorrow with that 'brilliant' editorial you write today."

We are happy to report that science is about to catch up with this aggravating band of neeblers. If things work out right, they soon will be eating their words and drinking them too. It now develops that old newspapers are a potentially tasty cowfeed. Dr. David A. Dinius, a scientist at the Agricultural Research Center at Beltsville, Md., says a cow can polish off about a dozen average size newspapers per day if the newspapers are mixed with molasses, soybean meal, minerals and vitamins.

Unfortunately, this prospective news miracle probably won't faze our regular neeblers for long. They will just switch from the fish-wrapper taunt to dismissing the efforts of the press as "so much cowfeed."—Greensboro (N.C.) Daily News

Construction on School Is Halted

WASHINGTON (AP) — The U.S. Supreme Court Monday ordered the Little Rock School District to halt construction on an addition to Henderson Junior High.

The Negro plaintiffs in the Little Rock school desegregation suit had requested the order to stop construction pending the final outcome of the suit. The suit is pending before the U.S. 8th Circuit Court of Appeals.

The blacks had contended that the addition to Henderson, which is predominantly white, would promote racial segregation.

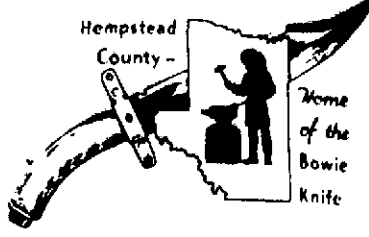

The project at Henderson includes 10 new classrooms and facilities for band and choral music activities.

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Gov. Dale Bumpers said Monday that Dr. Roger B. Bost of Little Rock would become director of the Department of Social and Rehabilitative Services.

Army Ousts Argentine President

BUENOS AIRES (AP) — Argentina's military commanders ousted President Roberto M. Levingston today and announced they would govern until representative democracy is restored. They appeared to have full control of the country.

The army commander, Lt. Gen. Alejandro Lanusse, emerged as the strong man in the latest upheaval within the military clique which has governed Argentina since 1968. He and the other two members of his junta had been "governing" with Levingston since they made him president nine months ago.

Schools were open as usual today, public services operated normally and there was no evidence of extra police. About the only departure from the norm in Argentine life were the military communiques mixed in with the regular radio station programming.

One of the first acts of the new junta, composed of the commanders of the army, navy and air force, was to restore air force Gen. Ezequiel Martinez to command as head of the military's joint chiefs of staff. Levingston had ousted Martinez last Friday, touching off the round of events that led to his downfall.

The ministers of defense, information and labor announced their resignations today. There was no immediate word from controversial Economics Minister Aldo Ferrer, whose economic policies had drawn increasing criticism to the Levingston administration in recent months.

The chief issue in the ouster was Lanusse's desire for an elected civilian government in one or two years.

In Spring You Delay Doing Things You've Already Postponed

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP) — Spring is a time when you feel like postponing until tomorrow the thing you've already postponed doing until today.

Spring is a time when anything is possible, but the thought of actually doing it is impossible to face.

Spring is a time of laziness and daydreaming. But your daydreams themselves don't have to be lazy at all. As long as you aren't called on to make them come true, they can be as bold as a brass bell and as vivid as a rainbow.

Here, for example, are a few daydreamy things one man would like to do before spring melts into summer and the weather gets to warm to work at any major goals at all:

Nose out a trained pig in a match race to see who could unearth the most truffles.

Arrest a citizen while he himself was trying to make a citizen's arrest.

Train a fruit fly to become a cannibal.

Get rid of the problem of Lake Erie by evaporating it.

School Board Adopts Petition Asking for Professional Appraisal Court Refuses Suit Involving Pollution

Hope School Board met last night, discussed the district's financial plight at length, and closed by approving a petition calling on the Hempstead County Judge to go along with a plan to hire professional appraisal assistants to help the County Assessor.

Some but not all taxing units were represented last night. Any one taxing unit can petition the Judge for a hearing but the district would like to include every unit.

They include the Hope School District, City of Hope, Fulton, Perrytown and Oakhaven and the Hempstead County Equalization Board.

At the request of Thurston Hulsey the petition adopted last night was amended to include the Washington District No. 12 which also seeks a reappraisal program.

The petition will be presented to the various taxing units for approval or disapproval and sent to Hempstead County Judge Finis Odom. The next step would be a public hearing on the matter called by the County Judge.

The true condition of the Hope School District was revealed in a public meeting with the Board on March 15 in a tentative 1971-72 budget was presented showing a deficit of $51,924 which according to school officials definitely means an 8-month school term for next year and possibly second year.

At the March 15 meeting the Classroom Teachers Organization presented demands to the board for a change in basic salary schedules along with other things. Any decision on these demands will have to await until the amount of revenue from new taxes passed by the WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court declined 8 to 1 today to settle a suit by the State of Ohio charging chemical firms in Michigan and Canada with feeding poisonous mercury compounds into Lake Erie.

At the same time, the court served notice that it will be difficult to persuade the justices to assert jurisdiction in disputes between citizens of different states.

The decision directed Ohio to take its case to its state courts with a virtual promise that if its allegations are proven the high court will uphold Ohio.

Justice John M. Harlan delivered the opinion that at once recognizes the court's jurisdiction over the suit and yet declines to exercise it. He cited several reasons, mainly the scientific knowledge necessary, the changing role of the Supreme Court and the fact pollution of Lake Erie is being considered by a joint commission with Canada and a conference sponsored by the Interior Department.

Justice William O. Douglas, a noted conservationist, dissented. He said the court could have appointed a panel of scientific advisers to help assess Ohio's allegations.

The suit named as defendants Dow Chemical Co. of Midland, Mich., Dow Chemical of Canada and Waydotte Chemicals Corp. of Waydotte, Mich.

Railpax to Miss Arkansas Completely

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—Arkansas was not included Monday in the National Railroad Passenger Corp.'s routes and schedules for the new Railpax Passenger System, beginning May 1.

Arkansas had sought to be included on the route that runs from Chicago to Houston.

This means that after May 1, Missouri-Pacific can remove its only passenger line service in the state if the railroad chooses to join Railpax. That line runs from St. Louis to Little Rock to Texarkana.

Cancels Speaking Engagements

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Bill Alexander, D-Ark., cancelled five Arkansas appearances scheduled for today so he could return to Washington for House consideration of a constitutional amendment lowering the voting age to 18 in all elections.

Alexander introduced a resolution Jan. 22 calling for such an amendment.

Alexander was expected to return to Arkansas tonight and continue his scheduled appearances.

SST Foes in Senate Have Upper Hand

WASHINGTON (AP) — Foes of the supersonic-transport plane appear to hold the edge at the start of final Senate debate on the project that so far has cost taxpayers $866 million.

A vote on whether to end SST federal funding March 30 or continue it over the next three months at a cost of $134 million is scheduled Wednesday afternoon.

An Associated Press survey Monday showed 48 senators against the SST or inclined to oppose it; 39 for it or leaning that way and 11 uncommitted.

Sens. Karl Mundt, R-S.D., and Everett Jordan, D-N.C., are ill and are not expected to vote.

Both sides continue to predict a close vote either way with a Republican forecasting a difference of one vote.

Vice President Spiro T. Agnew is expected to put in a rare appearance as presiding officer in case his vote is needed to break a tie.

The uncommitted senators include Conservative-Republican James Buckley of New York who was widely quoted last year as being opposed to the SST.

The other uncommitted senators are Clinton P. Anderson, D-N.M., John Sherman Cooper, R-Ky., Peter Dominick, R-Colo., Ernest F. Hollings, D-S.C., Hubert H. Humphrey, D-Minn., Russell Long, D-La., Charles McC. Mathias, R-Md., Gale McGee, D-Wyo., Margaret Chase Smith, R-Maine, and Stuart Symington, D-Mo.

The crucial Senate vote will come on an amendment approved last week by its Appropriations Committee providing the $134 million to help Boeing and General Electric continue work on the two prototypes through the end of June.

Farm Records Meet Planned Thursday

The Hempstead County Agricultural Extension Service will conduct a "Farm Records Meeting" on Thursday night, March 25. The meeting will be held in the Conference Room of the Post Office at Hope, and will start at 7:00 p.m.

Of particular interest to farmers and their wives, will be the discussion of records needed for the 1969 Tax Law changes.

J.O. Kumpke, Extension Farm Management Specialist, along with local Extension agents will present information on current ordinary expense and income records as well as the setting up of records for a depreciation schedule.

The revised depreciation schedule for the Arkansas Flexible Farm Record Book will be available for those farmers attending.

Time will be allotted for a question and answer session at the end of the meeting.

Registration of Pre-school Children

James H. Jones, Superintendent of Schools, announced today that all parents or guardians who have children who will be six years of age or before October 1, 1971, are asked to register their children at the elementary school nearest your residence beginning Tuesday, March 30, 1971 and ending Friday, April 2, 1971.

Information cards will be completed and other information will be given parents, concerning birth certificates, immunizations, etc.

No child will be admitted to school in the fall unless these requirements of Arkansas have been met.

This registration is necessary for all pupils entering first grade in order that the school staff can plan effectively for the 1971-72 school year.

Nixon Contends Laos Operation Guarantees Continued Withdrawal

By FRANK CORMIER
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — It is President Nixon's "interim assessment" that allied operations in Laos guarantee the continued withdrawal of at least 12,500 American troops each month from South Vietnam.

Moreover, Nixon asserted in an unprecedented hour-long television interview Monday night, the Laotian action has "substantially reduced" the danger to U.S. fighting men remaining in the war zone as the pullout proceeds.

Moderate Is Elected in Ireland

By ANDREW TORCHIA
Associated Press Writer
BELFAST, Northern Ireland (AP) — Northern Ireland's Protestant Unionist party did as expected today and elected moderate Brian Faulkner, 50, to be the province's prime minister.

The party's members in parliament elected Faulkner by a 26-4 vote over militant William Craig, who advocated establishment of internment camps for suspected Irish Republican terrorists.

But Craig claimed control of more than half the party's district branches, raising the prospect that he would be elected leader of the party at a convention scheduled Monday.

Both leadership elections were made necessary by the resignation last weekend of Prime Minister James Chichester-Clark, who quit because the British government wouldn't approve tougher measures against Roman Catholic extremists of the Irish Republican Army.

The IRA's ultramilitant "Provisional" wing today claimed responsibility for the downfall of both Chichester-Clark and his predecessor, Capt. Terence O'Neill. It pledged that the "British occupation force will be eventually driven out as well as Unionism and all it stands for."

In a statement, the IRA Provisionals said they would "vigorously pursue in the face of even greater aggression the policy of retaliation against British forces for brutalizing the Irish people."

Thousands Flee Laos Operation

By GEORGE ESPER
Associated Press Writer
SAIGON (AP) — U.S. support forces began pulling out of the northwest corner of South Vietnam today and more thousands of South Vietnamese troops fled across the border from Laos under heavy assault.

As the Laos operation drew to a close, North Vietnamese troops stepped up their attacks on the U.S. forces in the northwest sector who backed the south Vietnamese in their 44-day drive to cut North Vietnam's Ho Chi Minh Trail.

North Vietnamese artillery, rockets, mortars and sappers hit the forward base of Khe Sanh near the Laotian border and eight other U.S. positions supporting the South Vietnamese in Laos.

The U.S. Command reported seven Americans were killed and 40 wounded, but field reports said the casualties were higher. Enemy losses were unknown.

Associated Press correspondent Michael Putzel reported from the northern front that some U.S. helicopter units began pulling out of Khe Sanh and returning to their normal headquarters at Chu Lai and Phu Bai.

Informed sources said it would be some time before the last U.S. units are withdrawn from western Quang Tri Province, bordering Laos on the west and the demilitarized zone on the north.

About 10,000 U.S. troops were put into the sector Jan. 30 to act as a blocking force for the South Vietnamese and to support the Saigon forces with helicopters and supply movements.

It was understood that Khe Sanh itself would be closed within the next three weeks. Ham Nghi, the South Vietnamese forward command post for the operation nearby, is now in the process of closing out.

North Vietnamese gunners also shot down two U.S. jet fighter-bombers Monday, one of them with a Russian surface-to-air missile—SAM.

South Vietnamese forces were rapidly closing out their 44-day-old campaign in Laos to cut North Vietnam's Ho Chi Minh trail supply network. A spokesman, Lt. Col. Tran Van An, said another 7,000 troops had withdrawn across the border, leaving 5,000 in Laos out of the peak force of 22,000. He said the Saigon forces had abandoned another fire base and only two remained in their hands.

Associated Press correspondent Holger Jensen reported from an abandoned fire base near a border crossing point that remnants of one South Vietnamese armored column loaded with several hundred paratroopers raced across the border today through a gantlet of heavy North Vietnamese fire.

'Zero Draft' Concept Is Gaining

By JIM ADAMS
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon's "zero draft" volunteer-army concept, with nearly triple the initial pay boost he asked to attract recruits, may gain House approval in the next three weeks.

Even opponents of the two-year draft extension that goes with the bill say the President's volunteer-military goal has scattered House draft opposition.

The two-year extension jumping the President's $987-million pay-raise incentive for volunteers next year to $2.7 billion was approved by the House Armed Services Committee Monday. The vote was 36 to 4.

Leaders of an 87-member House bloc seeking to abolish the draft and rely strictly on an all-volunteer military praised the committee's pay boost.

One, Rep. William A. Steiger, R-Wis., said there still will be a floor effort to extend the draft one year instead of two, but he said House draft opposition has not had the "focus" this year that it had last year.

Besides the pay increase and draft extension, the committee bill would authorize President Nixon to abolish student draft deferments, including those for divinity students, and would increase nonmilitary service for conscientious objectors from two to three years.

Armed Services Chairman F. Edward Hebert, D-La., said he is confident the House will approve the bill. He has asked the leadership for a vote before April 7 when Congress starts its Easter Recess.

President Nixon's goal for attracting enough volunteers to maintain a 2.6-million-man military force is June 30, 1973, but his plan would keep the draft intact to pick up any slack.

Nixon Aims Squarely at Congress

By LEWIS GULICK
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon aimed squarely on a move among Democratic congressmen in contending a Dec. 31 Vietnam pullout deadline could deal a blow to America and chances for future peace.

"Anybody could end the war in Vietnam by just withdrawing, bugging out as it has been called," Nixon told his television interviewer Monday.

"And there are those now in the House and Senate," he said, "who say well, let's end it by the end of this year without regard to the consequences."

But the consequences, Nixon said, would be dire at this time when "we are winding down the war and bringing our men home" after great sacrifices and when the South Vietnamese "are achieving the capability of hacking it."

"If the United States now were to throw in the towel and come home and the Communists took over South Vietnam, then all over Southeast Asia, all over the Pacific, in the Mideast, in Europe, in the world, the United States would suffer a blow," he said.

Rep. Spark Matsunaga, D-Hawaii, has considerable support for a resolution he wants House Democrats to act on March 31. It calls for withdrawal of all U.S. forces and the release of all prisoners by Dec. 31.

In the Senate, Democrats have agreed on proposing that a fixed date be set for completing the troop pullout. They did not name the date, but indicated they meant by January, 1973.

Though Nixon did not mention it during his hour-long telecast, a number of Republicans in Congress agree with the deadline idea. On the other hand, many in both parties oppose it.

According to Nixon's scenario, the goal is to get out of Vietnam in a way that will not sow the seeds of future war. By this he means withdrawal geared to increasing Saigon ability to defend itself, while at the same time negotiating with Hanoi for peace terms that won't sell out the South Vietnamese government.

As for what he termed the games played by congressmen "to hamstring the executive" when the President is of the other party, he said the President usually wins when the lives of American fighting men are involved.

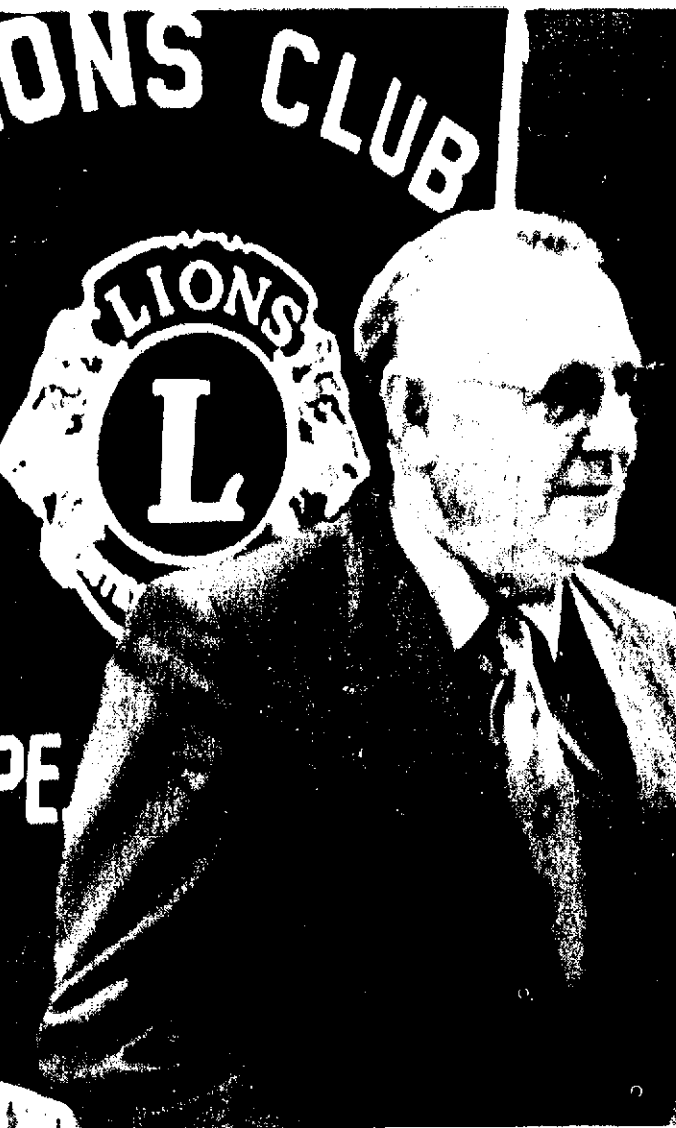

That is because the President has the responsibility as commander in chief of the armed forces and "you can have only one commander-in-chief," he said.

Experiment Station

CECIL BITTLE

Cecil Bittle, manager of the University of Arkansas Experiment Station in Hope told Hope Lions some of the early history of the station Monday during the weekly luncheon at the Town and Country.

Mr. Bittle has been manager of the station since 1946 but a movement to acquire and pay for land for the experiment station began in the years 1923-24-25.

They called it the experiment farm in those days and it was officially started September 9th 1926, with the Arkansas Bank and Trust Co. as Trustee.

The land was paid for by public subscription over the three year period; some individuals taking three years to pay twenty-five dollars. Mr. Bittle read names from the donor list that brought nostalgic memories to some who are natives of Hope because many businesses that no longer exist were prominent in the days the farm was established.

Just as the "Farm" has changed to "Station", now enlarged to deal with cattle, forestry, poultry and other related fields Mr. Bittle presented a film prepared by and for the University of Arkansas entitled "Agriculture is more than farming."

The movie dealt with the many endeavors coming under the name of agriculture and was very interesting in presentation. Lion David Still had as his guest, Frank Bates of Jacksonville, Arkansas. Mr. Bates is in Sears Management Training Program.

Cecil O'Steen was in charge of Mondays program.

Blytheville Teachers Urge Sale Tax

BLYTHERVILLE, Ark. (AP) — A letter urging Gov. Dale Bumpers to support a one-half cent sales tax increase to obtain additional funds for education in Arkansas was drafted Monday by the Blytheville Teachers Association.

The letter stated that the sales tax increase seemed to be the best way to obtain badly needed funds for education.

Bumpers has said he would veto any increase in the sales tax. To approve an increase in the sales tax would be a breach of faith for the legislators who approved the governor's $26 million tax package with the assurance that a sales tax increase would not be included, Bumpers said.

The letter pointed out that Bumpers had said during his campaign that education would be his No. 1 priority.

"How can we possibly be satisfied that you have done all you can for education when we know that it will take $30 million or more to bring Arkansas anywhere near the educational level of surrounding states, and when a little more than one third of the original amount you pledged has been appropriated," the letter said.

Author Irving Stone Honored

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Author Irving Stone, 68, has been awarded an honorary doctor of literature degree by the California State College system.

In presenting the degree Monday, college officials said Stone, "through such books as 'Lust For Life' and 'The Agony and the Ecstasy,' has enabled the world better to see and understand itself."

Veto of Auto License Change Possibility

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Gov. Dale Bumpers was reported today to be leaning toward a veto of a bill that would repeal the current method of staggering licensing of automobiles year around.

Rep. Lacy Landers of Benton told the Joint Budget Committee today that the governor had informed him that the committee should proceed with consideration of the budget for the state Revenue Department on the basis of no change in the current method of licensing.

Landers and Rep. G. W. "Buddy" Turner Jr. of Pine Bluff visited with the governor this morning on the instructions of the committee to find out whether Bumpers would veto the measure. The committee had held up consideration of the Revenue Department budget because of changes that would have to be made in it if Bumpers permitted the repeal legislation to become law.

The bill, in repealing the current method of licensing, would provide for licensing of cars between Jan. 1 and Feb. 15 and trucks between July 1 and July 31.

The Joint Budget Committee, in other action, approved a bill by Sen. Max Howell of Little Rock that would provide funds for implementing a new junior college in Pulaski County as well as other counties. The measure would provide $40,000 in the first fiscal year of the coming biennium and $540,000 in the second fiscal year. The money would be used for operations. It would be matched on a local basis.

Court Deals With Squeeze on Brethren

WASHINGTON (AP) — Justices on the highest court in the land suddenly find themselves having to deal with the financial squeeze on their brethren at the bottom of the judicial ladder.

The problem dropped into the laps of Chief Justice Warren E. Burger and his eight colleagues Monday in the form of an unusual case from a typical American big city: Philadelphia.

There the Court of Common Pleas, the city's basic trial court, is beset with a rising caseload, a growing staff and an urban administration that in ordering financial priorities left the 56 local judges with what they say is the short end.

But this time the Philadelphia judges took matters into their own hands in pursuit of the extra $18,000 a day they say they need for court-appointed-lawyers' fees, probation officers, a bigger staff and a new bail project.

The judges sued Mayor James J. H. Tate and the city council for the money. On Feb. 14, the Pennsylvania Supreme Court ruled the officials had to give the courts an additional $1,365,555 for the last five months of the fiscal year.

Now the city is appealing to the U.S. Supreme Court for a hearing and a reversal.

Ironically, the case reaches the justices immediately after well-publicized addresses by President Nixon and Burger on the plight of urban courts.

In his nearly two years as chief justice, Burger has lobbied relentlessly for more modern procedures and professional administrative talents for the courts. He has suggested national priorities are out of whack when billions are spent on defense and a relative trifle on the courts.

Group Works on Private School

PINE BLUFF, Ark. (AP) — A spokesman for a group working to establish a private school at Watson Chapel says an option has been taken on 20 acres adjacent to the Watson Chapel subdivision as a site for the facility.

Jack Marks, the spokesman, also said that 150 students had already signed up for the school which is to open next fall. Marks said the school will have a minimum enrollment of 300 students in the 12 grades.

Marks also said the school would have highly qualified teachers.

Figures That Mars Could Support Life

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — Three scientists sterilized fine soil and ground glass then bombarded it with ultraviolet radiation. The result: indications that Mars could support a form of life.

Drs. Norman Horowitz, Jerry Hubbard and James Hardy experimented for a year at the Jet Propulsion Laboratory of the California Institute of Technology.

"Our findings show that organic material is probably being produced by sunlight on the surface of Mars," they reported Monday.

They simulated Martian soil with baked earth and crushed glass, and the thin atmosphere with carbon dioxide, carbon monoxide and water vapor.

They said the gases combined with the soil and glass and, reacting with ultraviolet radiation like that which reaches Mars in sunlight, formed organic compounds just below the surface.

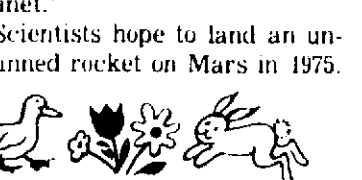

The experiment showed that sunlight over a long time could produce considerable amounts of such chemicals as acetaldehyde, formaldehyde and glycolic acid, the researchers said.

These chemicals are considered essential in the evolution of life.

"This is the most favorable indication for a possible Martian biological evolution that we have had in the last five years," Horowitz said.

"There are still many uncertainties, however, which won't be resolved until we land on the planet."

Scientists hope to land an unmanned rocket on Mars in 1975.

Private Tech Schools Cost Millions

By DONALD M. ROTHBERG
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Federal Tuition aid programs are pumping millions of dollars into private vocational schools whose educational and ethical standards get scant government surveillance.

Government officials say their agencies lack the manpower or authority to effectively police the 10,000 schools benefiting from the $250 million Veterans Administration and Office of Education programs.

An Associated Press study showed a vast majority of the schools provide adequate training for jobs in fields ranging from computer programming to earth moving. A small percentage don't, and officials say these few are responsible for the flow of complaints to federal agencies.

The AP study, based on federal files as well as interviews with educators and government officials, found:

—The phrases "Eligible for Veterans Benefits" and "Eligible for Federal Student Loan Guarantee Program" appear prominently in many vocational school advertisements, but such eligibility is no guarantee of adequate instruction or help in getting a job.

—Because the government guarantees payment of tuition, some schools recruit students they know aren't qualified and then charge high penalties when they drop out after a few weeks. Many students are unaware of what it will cost them if they drop out.

—The law setting up the student loan guarantee program left the Office of Education heavily dependent on non-government, industry-oriented accrediting agencies closely tied to the schools they are supposed to judge.

—Schools become eligible for veterans benefits on the basis of the uneven application of broadly written guidelines by state approval agencies.

—Vocational education salesmen often use tactics more familiar to used car lots than classrooms. Federal Trade Commission staff members say their power is extremely limited, and are pushing proposed tough steps to curb misleading sales practices.

Agreement Amended on Osteopaths

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Gov. Dale Bumpers said Monday that he had agreed to amend the administration's bill to allow osteopaths full practice privileges in Arkansas.

Bumpers made the announcement following a meeting with representatives of the Arkansas Medical Society.

He said he would amend the bill so that osteopaths could be licensed if they met one of three conditions:

— They had completed a year of internship at a hospital approved by the American Medical Association.

— They had completed a year of internship at a hospital by the American Osteopathic Association within the past five years.

— They had completed a year of residency in addition to the internship in an osteopathic hospital had been more than five years ago.

The Arkansas Medical Society has opposed granting full practice to osteopaths except under conditions that osteopathic physicians say are prohibitive.

The governor said after the meeting that he believed the bill in the amended form would be acceptable to the medical profession.

Tuesday, March 23, 1971 take vocational courses. But the student who looks to the government for advice on where to get the best training for the money will be disappointed.

The following complaints taken from government files deal with schools eligible for the student loan program and veterans benefits:

—After a $3,100 two-year course in court reporting at a Florida business college, Laura Gaines of Tampa wrote that "on graduation, I could not even qualify for an apprentice in court stenography and was fortunate to be placed as a 'legal trainee' at a minimum salary ($75 a week)—a far cry from the rosy promises of $250 a week the school made to us when we applied for admission to the course."

—Sharon Jones left Memphis, Tenn., in July 1970, to enroll at Cortez W. Peters Business College in Washington, D.C. What she found is described in an Office of Education staff memorandum:

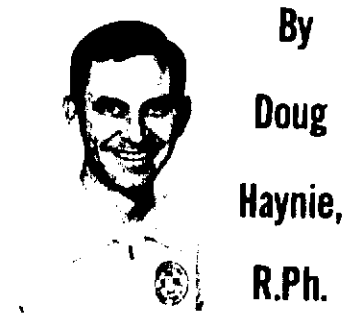

"Housing sponsored by the school was filthy and inadequate. Miss Jones had no place to put away her belongings, and the toilet was stopped up in the apartment to which she was assigned. Supervision of the residences by 'house mothers' was non-existent. A number of students appear to have had drinking problems, and male students were living in the same building, instead of all female students as indicated by the school."

—Out of a job, disabled, and living on welfare, Frederick Springer of Detroit paid a salesman $75 to enroll in a correspondence course in drafting. His Neighborhood Legal Services attorney said Springer was led to believe there would be no other charge for the course and that upon completion he would be guaranteed a job. Four months later, Springer received notice from the school that he owed $792.

With government loan guarantee programs, school operators know that they will get their tuition, if not from the student, then from the state or federal government.

Pharmacy Topics

By Doug Haynie, R.Ph.
The ancient Egyptians had many drugs. One unearthed papyrus parchment listed 811 prescriptions used in 1550 B.C. Most, however, were worthless.

While women applicants to medical schools have increased more than 300 per cent since 1930, there still are relatively few. Approximately 7 per cent to 8 per cent of all medical students today are women.

A plan for computer-assisted eye examinations devised at the University of California at Berkeley may be able to double the number of patients a doctor will be able to test. The number could be tripled if only the patients didn't blink.

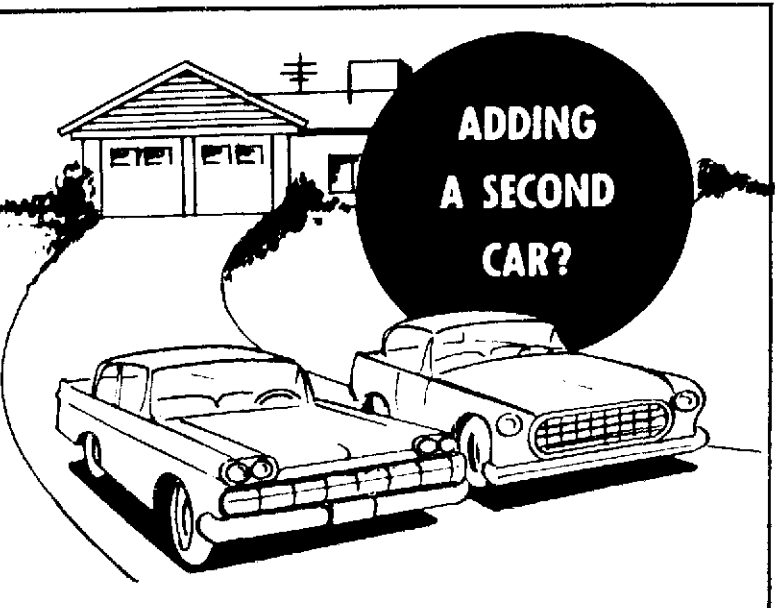

Priest-physicians of ancient Persia used various herbs to combat what they thought were disease demons, or "druques", the origin of the word "drugs".

The notation "b.i.d." in prescription shorthand is a Latin phrase, bis in die, which means "twice a day."

Television and Radio

NEW YORK (AP) — President Nixon, in his first prime-time interview with a single broadcaster since taking office, defended and explained his decisions and viewpoints for an hour of live television Monday night on ABC.

Howard K. Smith, holding a sheaf of cards to which he referred during his questioning, and the President faced each other in straight-back chairs in the White House library. More than half the time was occupied by the war in Indochina.

Nixon, leaning forward rather tensely throughout the interview, painted an optimistic picture of events in Laos and, without notes, reeled off statistics and dates, used World War II events for comparisons and compared his own problems with those of Woodrow Wilson and Franklin D. Roosevelt.

Billed by ABC as a "conversation," it was really a question-and-answer session on subjects that ranged from the credibility gap to conflict between the president and Congress.

The format was effective for the viewer. The questions flowed smoothly and followed a pattern, and the President was able to amplify and emphasize his opinions without interruption.

Although the precedent-making interview on ABC was the big ticket item of the evening, CBS, Carol Burnett and company came up with an unusually sprightly hour. The program, taped a couple of weeks ago in New York, suggests that a change of scenery once in a while is good for television shows as well as people.

Highlight of the program was an Italian opera version of "Cinderella," with Eileen Farrell and Marilyn Horne, classical singers, clowning and hamming it up as the two wicked stepsisters. Carol, of course, was the heroine.

In another amusing sketch, Carol and Harvey Korman played a pair of new-rich Middle Westerners buying a Rolls Royce. David Frost was the salesman and had the best lines: An oath for new Rolls owners never to hang baby booties from rear-view mirrors on raccoon tails from radio antennas.

YOUTH ASKED FOR IT!

Send your teenage questions to YOUTH ASKED for it, care of Helen Help Us! this newspaper.

ELUCIDATE BEFORE YOU NAVIGATE

Dear Helen: I am in the process of running away from home because no matter what I do I get in trouble.

I split four times before for other reasons. What can I do?—RUNAWAY

Dear Runaway:

If you communicate as little to your parents as you did to me, it's no wonder they don't understand or sympathize.

How do you get in trouble? What are the other reasons? Elucidate before you split, and maybe this trip won't be necessary. —H.

Dear Helen:

I have this girl who is okay for laughs, but not exactly what I'd like to live with all my life. To illustrate: she thinks Laos is some kind of crawling bug. She's not much better on the house-keeping end either. Doning my laundry the other day she wanted to spin-dry a towel, so she turned to "R" for "wring." And insisted the machine was crazy when she got rinse water!

Now she's got this dumb idea we're engaged. I'm 22, and have a bachelor apartment. She is still in school, though it hasn't helped her mentality any. How do you get a beautiful but brainless female to see that marriage is not what I have in mind? Without getting rid of her entirely:—NOT THAT SERIOUS

Dear Not:

Your brainless bombshell may be smarter than you think. "Marriage was not what I had in mind" are famous last words for many an ex-bachelor who couldn't quite make the final break.

Remember, I warned you! —H.

Dear Helen:

I am popular in school. All my friends are always visiting each other, but I live in an awful old ugly house. The furniture is shabby too. I'm ashamed, so none of my friends are invited over.

I know you'll say if they're true friends it won't matter, but they have beautiful homes, and I don't want their pity.

Another thing is boy friends. They want to come and visit me but I always have an excuse. I'm too young to date (my folks say), but when I start, how can I keep guys from knowing about my house? Also my father drinks and I never know how he'll act.

How can I stay in my crowd and keep my home life secret?—N.A.

Dear N.:

If you accept your house and family life as things over which you have no control, your friends will do likewise. But if you try to hide what most already know, they'll see you as a snob . . . Or else they'll gradually agree with your opinion about your "inferiority."

It's tough, not having the advantages other kids enjoy, but only "shameful" if you make it so!—H.

Caravan of Hippies Crossing State

CLARKSVILLE, Ark. (AP)—About 50 buses carrying 300 long-haired people from California to Tennessee were to begin the final leg of their journey today.

The caravan spent Monday night camped in a rest area on Interstate 40 near Clarksville. The group started their trek from San Francisco last month, averaging about 150 miles a day. They are bound for a 600-acre farm near Nashville.

The group's leader, Steven Gaskin, 37, said that representatives in Nashville were negotiating for the purchase of the farm. He said he did not know who owned the farm or its exact location.

The group plans to engage in organic farming and operate a health food store in Nashville. In addition, Gaskin said the commune would continue its spiritual work.

Gaskin said if negotiations for the Tennessee farm fall through, the group might push on to the Appalachian Mountains or return to the Arkansas Ozarks.

FDA May Act Against Hospital

By G. C. THELEN
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The Food and Drug Administration is considering emergency action against use of a contaminated hospital fluid after a warning failed to stem a wave of blood infections.

The agency, which has drawn the fire of consumer-advocate Ralph Nader, has decided tentatively to remove the contaminated intravenous, sugar solution from hospitals and nursing homes if it is certain other manufacturers can step in, an FDA official disclosed. The contaminated fluid was produced by Abbott Laboratories.

Failure to take this step two weeks ago when the peril was discovered was "shockingly irresponsible," Nader said in a letter to FDA Commissioner Charles C. Edwards.

A "staggering number" of additional cases of blood infection, amounting to an epidemic, have been reported in the week since the FDA advised precautionary handling of the fluid, a government source said.

It was also learned the FDA over-rode a recommendation to ban the fluid from the Public Health Service after a government survey of eight PSH hospitals between October 1970 and March 1 disclosed 150 blood infections and nine deaths linked to the Abbott Laboratories' product.

Projected to other hospitals, the figures indicated thousands of infections.

Hawaii Is Cinderella Team of NIT

By BRUCE LOWITT
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — A team that came some seven thousand miles to play basketball will stay to play again—but there are no tomorrows for all but one of the "neighborhood kids" in the National Invitational Tournament.

Hawaii, this year's Cinderella team in the tourney at Madison Square Garden, completed first-round play Monday with a thrilling 88-87 come-from-behind double-overtime squeaker over Oklahoma.

Then, in the night's opening of quarter-finals play, North Carolina outthudded and outmuscled Providence 86-79 to gain a shot at Atlantic Coast Conference rival Duke, an easy 78-64 victor over Tennessee before 12,437 fans.

The quarter-finals conclude Wednesday night with Hawaii facing St. Bonaventure and Michigan going against Georgia Tech. The winners of those two games will oppose each other in the semis. St. Bonaventure is the last Eastern team in contention.

Bill Chamberlain, the Tar Heels' 6-foot-6 junior forward, was electrifying in the closing minutes. He scored 10 of his 19 in the final six and added some brilliant ball-hawking—including a steal and lay-in on a Providence in-bounds pass that seemed to deflate the scrappy Friars.

Chamberlain's heroics overshadowed the superb play of Dave Chadwick. The 6-8 senior, subbing for deadeye shooter Dennis Wuyek—out of the tourney with strained knee ligaments—wound up leading the Tar Heels with 22 points. Ernie De Gregorio, the Friars' flashy 6-foot guard, led everyone with 23.

Duke, which like North Carolina, left immediately after the game to return to classes today before bouncing back to New York Wednesday night, also drew away from a close half-

Managers Pull Strategy Real Early

By HAL BOCK
Associated Press Sports Writer

Okay, you can start the baseball season anytime now. Managers Gene Mauch and Billy Martin are ready.

Mauch, whose Montreal Expos won an exhibition game last week on a double steal, outthudded the opposition again Monday, beating Washington 5-3 with the winning run scoring on a squeeze bunt.

And Martin, returning to the big leagues as Detroit's manager, used 26 players including eight pinch hitters to beat the New York Yankees 5-4.

Elsewhere in exhibition baseball, San Diego blasted California 10-0, Pittsburgh clipped Kansas City 8-4, Philadelphia trimmed Cincinnati 8-7, the New York Mets topped St. Louis 2-1, Boston bombed Los Angeles 10-5, Baltimore nipped the Chicago White Sox 6-5, San Francisco downed Cleveland 5-2 and the Chicago Cubs edged Oakland 5-4.

San Diego punished Jim Maloney for all of their 10 runs in ripping California. Dave Campbell had three hits for the Padres, who collected 14 for the day.

Al Santorini worked seven shutout innings for San Diego allowing just two hits.

Pittsburgh used home runs by Bob Robertson, Al Oliver and Richie Zisk to rip Kansas City.

Philadelphia rallied for four runs in the ninth inning, the last two on Woody Woodward's error, to whip Cincinnati. Singles by Tim McCarver, Ken Stone, Don Money and Larry Bowa had gotten the Phils' first two runs across in the ninth. Money, Oscar Gamble and Larry Hise all homered for Philadelphia and Lee May had a three-run shot for the Reds.

St. Louis dropped its fifth straight game with pitcher Fred Norman's 10th inning throwing error allowing the New York Mets to score the winning run in a squeaker. Norman walked Ken Boswell with one out in the 10th and then threw away Tommie Agee's bouncer, allowing Boswell to score the deciding run.

Rico Petrocelli smashed a homer, double and single as Boston battered Los Angeles. Petrocelli drove in five runs and Billy Conigliaro also contributed three hits to the 14-hit Red Sox attack. Bill Buckner had three hits and Steve Garvey and Duke Sims homered for the Dodgers.

Mike Cuellar's bid to go nine innings fell two outs short but Tom Dukes cut off a late White Sox' rally to save Baltimore's victory over Chicago. Jay Johnstone's two-run double kayoed Cuellar.

Dave Johnson led the Orioles' attack with a two-run double and a homer.

Rookies George Foster and Fran Healy delivered key hits in a three-run eighth inning rally that moved San Francisco past Cleveland. Foster's RBI single broke a tie and then Healy followed with a two-run double.

Willie Mays homered for the Giants.

Hal Breeden's two-out double drove in the Cubs' winning run in the ninth inning against Oakland. Gary Jestead had a three-run homer and Johnny Callison added a solo shot for the Cubs.

Perry's Bowling Team Wins

UCLA Admits Offense Not Outstanding

By DAN BERGER
Associated Press Sports Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Poise and a tentacle-like defense have paved the way for UCLA's top-ranked Bruins through a number of close games to just a hop and a skip into a fifth consecutive national collegiate basketball title.

"It's been well known that we are not an outstanding offensive team this year," said the veteran coach. "Defense has held us up as far as we've gone."

"Whether we had a man-to-man or a zone defense, we just haven't shot very well but I've never had a team respond any better to tight situations."

Indeed, Wooden's five has been in hot water a number of times this season but so far, the only loss in 28 games was 87-82 to Notre Dame.

—Lowly Stanford, which wound up the season 6-19, defended UCLA well and played a slow-down offense Jan. 15. The Indians crawled to within two points with just two minutes to play but UCLA hit clutch free throws to win 58-53.

—Third-ranked Southern Cal had UCLA down 59-50 with just 9 1/2 minutes left in their Feb. 6 contest, but UCLA's viselike defense clamped hard and USC scored just a single free throw until the buzzer. UCLA won the key Pacific-8 game 64-60.

—The following week the Bruins trailed Oregon 68-87 with less than one minute left and the Ducks owned the ball. But Bruin guard Henry Bibby stole the ball from Bill Drozdak, raced the length of the court for a layup and UCLA won by a point.

—The next night, Oregon State led the Bruins almost the entire game until UCLA tied it with 40 seconds left. Then the Beavers dropped the ball out of bounds under pressure of the UCLA press and forward Sidney Wicks won the game with a 20-foot bucket, 67-65.

—At Washington State Feb. 27, the Cougars cut a UCLA led to just 55-53 with seven seconds to play when UCLA reserve Terry Schofield was fouled hard and injured. Wooden took him out of the game for good and sent in the team's best free throw shooter, John Ecker, who made two free throws for a four-point victory.

—Two days later at Washington, Charles Dudley of the Huskies hit a free throw with 42 seconds to play, giving Washington a 69-68 lead. The Bruins came down, flipped the ball in for forward Curtis Rowe, who jumped over tall Steve Hawes and hit a 10-foot jump shot with 29 seconds left and the Bruins won by a pair.

"It's unbelievable how they can win games like that," said Long Beach State Coach Jerry Tarkanian. "I don't think anyone who's not in coaching can appreciate just what that team has done. It's incredible, up there in the northwest, in Utah. That was the most painful loss I've ever suffered."

Tarkanian referred to last Saturday's 57-53 defeat to the Bruins in the Western Regional tourney of the NCAA. "We did everything right—we neutralized their press, we rebounded well, we ran out offense and we reduced the effectiveness of their inside game. But they just didn't make any mistakes," Tarkanian said.

Super Bowl Derby Gets Underway

PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Veteran Miami and rookie Dallas were the leading candidates as the Super Bowl derby got under way today at the National Football League meetings with six cities bidding to host pro football's glamor event next season.

Seven groups representing the six locals began presenting their cases before the assembled NFL owners at 15-minute intervals beginning at 10 a.m. EST, with a decision expected either late today or early Wednesday.

Here's the way the field looked going into the race:

Miami — A three-time host bidding for still another shot with a delegation headed by Mayor David Kennedy. The game has had spectacular success in Miami, but there is considerable sentiment for rotating the game between American and National Conference cities. Miami, an AFC city, was the host last January.

Dallas — A delegation headed by Gar Lux, president of the Dallas Chamber of Commerce, is looking to lure the game to the new Texas Stadium just outside Dallas. Unlike any of the other four contenders, Dallas does not have any strikes against it and as an NFC city would satisfy the rotation proponents. Dallas, therefore, is up there with Miami.

New Orleans — The host two years ago, New Orleans is trying again with Lester J. Kabacoff, president of the city's tourist commission, heading the delegation. All indications are that if the owners want to switch to an NFC city, they would prefer Dallas to New Orleans since Dallas has never been the host.

Los Angeles — Warren Dorn, a county supervisor, leads a delegation that has only a long-shot chance of getting the game for the Los Angeles Coliseum. There still is strong sentiment against the city because the first Super Bowl played to almost 30,000 empty seats there.

Houston — Is making two bids, one for the astrodom and one for Rice Stadium, the very fact that likely will leave the owners no choice but to scratch them early. Picking one obviously would offend the other. Houston also is handicapped by being an AFC city.

Jacksonville, Fla. — A delegation headed by Danny Bridges of the Gator Bowl is seeking the game, but Jacksonville likely will receive little attention since it is not a league city. Jacksonville, therefore, probably has the poorest chance.

Edmonton, England, outpointed Johan Louw, Edmonton, 15, Sterling retained British Empire midweight championship; Fraser Scott, Seattle, outpointed Billy Marsh, Las Vegas, Nev., 10.

NEW ORLEANS — Alvin Phillips, New Orleans, outpointed Stanley "Kitchen" Hayward, Philadelphia, midweight, 10.

PHILADELPHIA — Eugene "Cyclone" Hart, Philadelphia, knocked out Jimmy Meilleur, New York, 4, middleweights.

Soviet Hockey Teams Leads World Match

BERN, Switzerland (AP) — "We've got to play with guts and pain killers," said U.S. Coach Murray Williamson today as the World Ice Hockey Championships went into its fifth day.

The Soviets lead the six-team standings with three victories, 29 goals against five and appear headed for their ninth world championship on the trot.

Sweden has won its two opening games to take second place with a goal count of 10-7.

Finland has two points from two matches, the United States two points from three games and Czechoslovakia two points from three games.

West Germany is at the foot of the standings with no points from three games.

"This is a hard grind," said Williamson, a former All-American player at the University of Minnesota.

"There's still 12 days to go. And nobody should think it's all over at this stage."

"We've got four boys on the injury list. Other teams will suffer the same troubles before this lot is over."

State Sweeps Pair to Stay Unbeaten

JONESBORO, Ark. (AP) — Arkansas State University swept a baseball doubleheader over Northwestern University of the Big Ten Monday.

The Indians, now 5-0, won the first game 5-0 behind the six-hit pitching of Charles Blackburn and captured the nightcap 6-4 as junior Vick Carrillo fired another six-hitter.

In the first game, the loser was Bob Artemenko and Dave Ratusnik absorbed the loss in the second game.

Blackburn, who earned his second victory of the year, struck out seven and walked none in recording ASU's first shutout of the season.

Standing Room Crowd Yells for Pacers

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — A standing room only crowd of nearly 10,000 Indiana Pacers fans rocked the old Indiana State Fairgrounds Coliseum Monday night as veteran Roger Brown put on his hero's mangle and the Pacers took a big leap.

For the second time in 10 days, the Pacers beat the Utah Stars here to move a half game ahead in their torrid race for the Western Division crown of the America Basketball Association.

The defending ABA champion Pacers have had their problems being consistent this season in a new division they were in the Eastern last season and with a difficult road schedule because of that change.

But Brown blocked two shots, caused a key Utah error and scored the Pacers' final four points in the last two minutes of play to lead Indiana to a 110-106 decision Monday, its fifth straight victory and 13th in 14 games.

Brown had 25 points to lead the Pacers and little Billy Keller added 24. Glen Combs led Utah with 30 points.

It was the night's only pro basketball game. The ABA still has a week remaining of its regular season while the National Basketball Association ends its regular season tonight and starts its playoffs Wednesday.

Bopdavelle Strides to Oaklawn Win

HOT SPRINGS, Ark. (AP) — Bopdavelle, owned by G. M. Hollister, overtook Fair Ye Well in the final strides to win Monday's $9,000 Oaklawn Park feature race by two and one-half lengths.

Bopdavelle ran the six furlongs in 1:09 4-5, only four-fifths of a second slower than the track record set by Roman K. on Feb. 25, 1967.

As second choice in the waging, the three-year-old colt, ridden by James McKnight, paid $8, $2.40 and $2.40. Favorite Fair Ye Well, with Stanley Spencer aboard, returned $2.20 and $2.20. Third place finisher Neartown, ridden by J. L. Lively, paid $2.80.

Bopdavelle trailed coming out of the gate, but made a hurried move at the quarter pole to be fourth behind Neartown.

The pace picked up heading into the stretch as Bopdavelle started closing the gap on leader Fair Ye Well, the only filly in the field.

Bopdavelle turned on the speed nearing the wire and sailed to a two and one-half length victory.

Fair Ye Well was a solid second, finishing 10 lengths before Neartown.

Jockey R. O. Strauss posted a winning double aboard Palsades Girl in the second and I Said He Was in the fourth.

The daily double combination of Kujah with Bill Fleming aboard in the first, and Palsades Girl in the second, numbers 7 and 1, paid $65.

The crowd of 11,598 wagered $966,881.

Hindaya, top-weighted at 118 pounds, including jockey Don Brumfield, heads a field of six older horses in today's $8,500 feature race at one mile and 70 yards.

The other five are Champagne Kid (115), Bendaville (106), Postal Milargo (115), Joe Top (110) and Semi-Phade (115).

New York Yankees

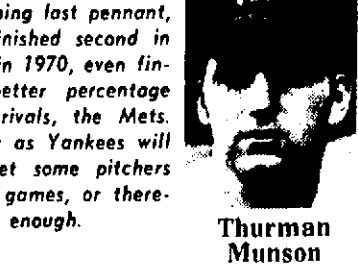

American League—East

PROSPECTUS: Yankees had best season since winning last pennant, in 1965. They finished second in Eastern Division in 1970, even finished with a better percentage than their city rivals, the Mets. But that's as far as Yankees will go until they get some pitchers who can win 20 games, or thereabouts. One isn't enough.

ROY WHITE

THURMAN MUNSON

PITCHING—Fritz Peterson was 20-11 last year to lead staff. Mel Stottlemyre was 15-13 and Stan Bahnsen 14-11. They are backed up by Mike Kekich, who was 5-3 last year but was impressive near the end, and Steve Kline, 23, who was 6-6 after being thrust into a starting role. Bullpen sound with Lindy McDaniel, Jack Aker. Rating: B

CATCHING—Thurman Munson was A. L. Rookie of the Year. He's 23, and hit .302 with 53 RBIs last season. Rating: A—

INFIELD—Horace Clarke (.251) at second, but rest of infield unsettled. Yanks may hand shortstop job to rookie Frank Baker, and third base is open after poor season by Jerry Kinney (.193). Cater may move to third, and John Ellis may take over at first. Rating: C

OUTFIELD—Roy White had best season as Yankee last year, hitting .296 with 22 home runs and 94 RBIs. Bobby Mercer, in center field, keeps hitting his share of home runs but his average still hasn't bettered .250. Steady Danny Cater (.301, 76 RBIs) will be in right. Jim Little will be breathing down their necks, after hitting .301 as regular last two months of season. Rating: B+

ROOKIES TO WATCH—Baker, from Syracuse, is best of lot. This may be the season, too, for Ron Blomberg, first baseman-in-waiting.

Predicted Finish: 3rd in East

Royals Set Sights on Playing .500

By DICK COUCH
Associated Press Sports Writer
FORT MYERS, Fla. (AP) — Expansion clubs can't afford the luxury of spring pennant fever, so the young Kansas City Royals have set their sights on the middle ground in the American League West.

"We'll play .500 ball," says outfielder Lou Piniella, the Royals' top hitter. "That'll be moving up for us."

It would, in fact, be a significant pickup.

Last season, their second in the league, the Royals got off poorly under Manager Charlie Metro, replaced him with Bob Lemon in June and played break-even baseball over the final 1½ months to finish in a fourth place deadlock with Milwaukee, the other 1969 expansion club.

They were 32 games under .500 at the wire.

Piniella, the All Rookie of the Year in 1969, batted .301 last season. Big Bob Oliver slammed 27 home runs; Joe Keough hit .322 before going out with a broken leg and newcomer Amos Otis sparked at bat, in the field and on the bases.

But aside from Oliver's slugging, which accounted for 99 runs batted in, there was a marked shortage of power. Kansas City was last in the league in homers with 97 and last in the majors in runs with 61.

Shortstop Fred Patek, who came to the royals in a 3-for-3 trade with Pittsburgh, hit just one homer last year for the Pirates. But the 5-foot-4 mite, smallest player in the majors, figures to add some offensive punch to the lineup.

Pitching could present another problem for Lemon, with hard-throwing Bob Johnson dealt to Pittsburgh in the Patek trade and several potential starters coming off 1970 injuries.

"We counted on Wally Bunker, Roger Nelson, Bill Butler and Mike Hedlund last year, but they won only eight games between them," Lemon says. "All four of them were hurt."

Nelson and Bunker had shoulder troubles. Butler a tender elbow and Hedlund a strength-sapping viral infection. All are throwing hard again, but Bunker, 2-11 last year, is the only one Lemon lists as a starter.

The others will be Dick Drago, 9-15, Jim Rooker, 10-15

Texas Fighters Rule Golden Glove Matches

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP) — Texas fighters ruled today at the amateur boxing kings of the nation, and for Bubba Busceme the title was one he could enjoy threefold.

The cagy, catlike lightweight stowed away his third national crown Monday night in leading his teammates to an overwhelming successful defense of the title in the Golden Gloves Tournament of Champions.

With James Martinez winning the flyweight title and Johnny Moreno adding batamweight laurels, the Texas club wound up with 24 points, smothering runnerup Charlotte, N.C.

The Charlotte team, which included eight Marines from Camp Lejeune, wound up with 17 points, two better than Salt Lake City and Indianapolis.

The 1971 Gloves champions, crowned before a record Tarrant County Convention Center crowd of 12,459, also included: Ronald Draper, Kansas City, heavyweight.

Jerry Dobbs, Knoxville, Tenn., middleweight.

Samuel NeSmith, Indianapolis, light middleweight.

Larry Carlisle, Charlotte, welterweight.

Wiele Johnson, Cincinnati, light welterweight.

Louis Self, Toledo, Ohio, featherweight.

All-America Hockey Team Announced

BOSTON (AP) — Joe Cavanagh of Harvard was named for the third straight year, while Kevin Pettit of Cornell and Clarkson's brilliant goaltender Bruce Bullock, made it for the second time in a row each Monday as the American Hockey Coaches announced their 1970-71 All-American squad.

Steve Stirling of Boston University's recently crowned NCAA champions joins Cavanagh and Pettit on the front line for the East team, while the defensemen are Bob Brown of BU, the only sophomore on the squad, and Steve Warr of Clarkson.

In addition to Clarkson and BU, teams placing two players each on the squad were Denver and Michigan Tech.

Forward Vic Venasky, the only freshman on the squad, and defenseman Mike Christie are Denver's two representatives on the West team.

Michigan Tech placed Rob Murray at the other defense spot and Morris Trewin at goal, while the other forwards are Waltec Ledingham of Minnesota-Duluth and Don Thompson of Michigan State.

Good Prospects for Oil Off S. Vietnam

By WALTER R. MEARS
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP)—Saigon's embassy in Washington is boasting of bright prospects for the discovery of oil off South Vietnam.

A Senior Senate Republican says the State Department is playing down the matter, lest it become a factor in the debate over U.S. war policy.

In a way, it already has. Some 11,000 letters, most of them generated by the campaign of a Beverly Hills, Calif., peace organization have flooded the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, seeking hearings on the oil question.

"Oil today is what beaver pelts once were to North America," Sen. George D. Aiken, R-Vt., said in an interview. "You can have a war over it 'this time we've got the trouble first."

In fact, no oil has been discovered, although surveys indicate possible offshore oil deposits.

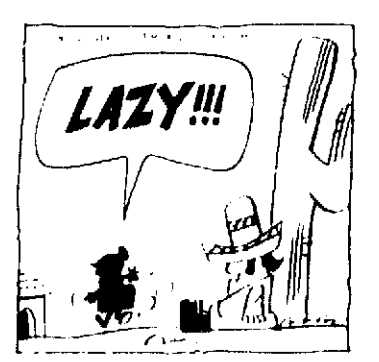

Secretary of State William P. Rogers has declared reports of possible oil deposits "have absolutely no effect on United States policy ...

"We did not even know about these rumors until recently," Rogers said.

"The State Department has apparently played down the question of oil," said Aiken. "But the oil people themselves apparently have been very much excited over it."

The embassy featured the oil exploration prospect in the March 1 issue of its weekly publication Vietnam Report, and said the outlook is promising.

Let's look at our old friend, the unlucky expert. There was certainly nothing wrong with his opening one heart or his two-heart rebid. Yet, no one will convince him there was anything wrong with his bid of three hearts.

West doubled and opened a diamond. Our friend struggled, but when the debris had cleared, he had collected only five tricks, while East and West won a juicy 700 points.

The unlucky expert blamed North for his one-spade response. He criticized East's three-diamond call at considerable length. Finally he cursed all the Gods of Chance.

North's one-spade response was nothing to ring bells about, but it is the sort of response that should be made. He has six high-card points and a decent five-card spade suit.

East's three-diamond call was one of those gambling reopening bids. East could be pretty sure his partner would have some high cards. Otherwise, North and South would have bid more. He knew that he might be doubled at three diamonds but he took that gamble. It paid off when South bid once more and once too often.

We approve of competition, otherwise your opponents will partial-score you to death. However, South had no reason to bid a third time. North still had a bid if he had the right hand.

Calley Jury
Is Now in Second Week

By HARRY F. ROSENTHAL
Associated Press Writer
FT. BENNING, Ga. (AP) — The case of the United States vs. Lt. William L. Calley Jr. went to the jury one week ago, but a verdict in the record-length My Lai murder trial appeared no closer today than it did then.

In fact, the six veteran Army officers on the panel give every indication they are resigned to a long stay. They asked Monday for a week's supply of fresh laundry and that arrangements be made for their March 31 paychecks on the chance they are not finished.

As the seventh day of deliberations began, the jurors had devoted 34 hours to actually discussing the charges against Calley: that he murdered 102 villagers when his infantry platoon stormed May Lai March 16, 1968.

But they also spent many hours in the courtroom—face to face again with the 27-year-old lieutenant they are judging—for memory-jogging readbacks of the testimony of 10 key prosecution witnesses.

All touched on the shootings at a trail intersection, the first count of the four specifications. At least 30 persons allegedly died at the intersection.

The reading of the testimony of James Dursi, of Brooklyn, N.Y., wound up the refresher sessions.

Dursi said he overheard Calley telling Paul Meadlo, another witness, to take care of a group of more than 30 villagers under guard at the intersection. Calley left momentarily, Dursi said, returned "and yelled to Meadlo, 'Why haven't you wasted them yet?' Meadlo stood there astonished. As I made a turn on the trail, I heard firing to my rear."

Q. Where was Lt. Calley when you last saw him?

A. He was standing on the trail.

Those words, made more vivid in repetition because the jurors have the benefit of much subsequent testimony, are crucial to Calley's case on the first specification. The jurors were told they must find Calley killed at that spot—and nowhere else—to convict him of the specification.

Dursi said he had at least 15 men, women and children in his custody. He took them to a drainage ditch east of the village.

Matthews to Stay, Says
Governor

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Gov. Dale Bumpers Monday squelched a rumor that Charles D. Matthews might be severed from the administration.

Matthews, a legislative aide, had written a letter to some teachers in the Blytheville area saying that Bumpers was committed to sign a bill increasing the sales tax if one were passed by the General Assembly.

Bumpers earlier had expressed bewilderment over the letter since it conflicted with his public statements indicating a marked reluctance to support any measure to increase the rate, which is presently 3 per cent.

Bumpers talked Monday with Matthews, who is vacationing in the Caribbean, and said that Matthews told him that what he had intended was to simply note that the teachers were already aware of the governor's position on the sales tax.

When asked if Matthews had fallen out of grace because of the mistake, Bumpers said, "No, we'll all welcome Charlie back with open arms."

Apparently taking the issue in stride, the governor added, "We'll slap his wrists and tell him not to do it again."

SCHOOL BOARD

Arkansas Legislature can be definitely determined. The adopted resolution follows:

IN THE COUNTY COURT OF HEMPSTEAD COUNTY IN RE: PROFESSIONAL APPRAISAL ASSISTANTS TO COUNTY ASSESSOR

PETITION
Come the undersigned and in support of their petition to this honorable court say:

That a real need exists for the employment of qualified professional appraisers to make appraisals of all the taxable real property in Hope School District 1A and Washington District 12 and to make such appraisals available to the Hempstead County Assessor as an aid to such assessor in making his assessments for ad valorem tax purposes; that the assessor of Hempstead County and his assistants have been unable to cope with inflationary trends in values and increased construction activity; that they are overworked beyond their capacity and gross inequities in assessments of said district have resulted; that the equalization board has neither sufficient time or means to correct these inequities of long standing.

WHEREFORE, Premises considered, your petitioners pray that this court fix a time and place certain for the hearing of this petition and cause the clerk of this court to give notice thereof in the time and manner required by law; that this court determine a real need exists for the employment of professional appraisers to reassess the real property of Hope School District 1A, and Washington School District No. 12, and that the interest and welfare of the general public will be promoted thereby;

Petitioners further pray that this court then appoint three owners of real property within the said district to negotiate a contract of employment with professional appraisers for the purposes prayed and that said contract be approved and such appraisal be completed all as provided by law and particularly by Act 351 of the Acts of Arkansas of the year 1949.

Senate Wants
Appropriation Released

WASHINGTON (AP) — Accusing the White House of overstepping the Constitution, a Senate panel is challenging President Nixon's refusal to spend $1.1 billion appropriated by Congress.

Sen. Sam J. Ervin's Judiciary subcommittee on separation of powers is examining the practice of executive impoundment under which the executive branch has withheld money earmarked mostly for highways and defense projects this fiscal year.

Ervin, D-N.C., said before today's hearing: "The growing practice of executive impoundment is another in a long line of developments in the operation of our national government that are eroding the powers of the legislative branch."

"Under the present impoundment practice," Ervin added, "the President has an item veto over acts of Congress. There is not a word in the Constitution giving such a power."

Ervin said neither he nor other members of Congress object to the executive branch apportioning funds to avoid deficiencies or returning money to the Treasury when a project costs less to complete than was appropriated.

But to Ervin, "the use of the impounding practice to avoid or nullify congressional intent" is another matter.

The tabulation of $1.1 billion unspent funds as of Feb. 23 was compiled by the Office of Management and Budget earlier this month for the Senate Appropriations Committee.

Nixon Middle East Policy
Is Attacked

By LAWRENCE L. KNUSTON
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Two senators say the Nixon administration is courting disaster by insisting Israel withdraw to pre-1967 borders and rely on the superpowers to guarantee security and survival.

"Israel does not want to be the theater of confrontation between the two superpowers," said Sen. Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y.

Javits and Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., in separate speeches prepared for the Senate today, opened fire on Secretary of State William P. Rogers' proposal that American and Soviet soldiers join in guarding Israel's borders.

Israeli rejection of the Rogers plan was repeated Friday by Foreign Minister Abba Eban who told a Washington news conference external guarantees could not substitute for defensible borders.

Forcing Israel back to the vulnerable borders it held prior to the six-day 1967 war and then installing Soviet military forces along them is the most "shortsighted and dangerous" proposal that could be offered, Jackson said.

"In my view," he added, "the administration is courting disaster by considering a plan that would have the effect of legitimizing the Russian military presence in Egypt. We should be trying to get the Russians out of the Middle East, not designing plans to dig them in."

Placing American troops alongside Russians, Jackson said, "would create a condition in which minor border incidents could escalate into great power crises threatening both the stability of the Middle East and the peace of the world."

"It is my belief that the hope for lasting peace in the Middle East lies in American support for a map of Israel with secure and recognized borders whose defense can be assured by the Israelis themselves," Jackson said.

Jackson proposed a map including these points:

—Continued Israeli control of Sharm el Sheikh, the port commanding the Gulf of Aqaba, and Israeli retention of a strip of land along the eastern edge of the Sinai desert linking Sharm el Sheikh to Israel.

—Total demilitarization of the rest of the Sinai Desert "so that no Egyptian armor, aircraft or military personnel would be permitted to cross the Suez Canal."

Indication
in April
Announcement

By FRED S. HOFFMAN
AP Military Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon says his April announcement projecting further U.S. troop withdrawals from Vietnam "will give some indication as to the end of the tunnel."

Pentagon officials said these words Monday night appear to be a hint that Nixon is leaning toward a commitment covering a period at least six months ahead.

In their opinion, a projection for only three or four months in the future would not give the picture of things to come that Nixon suggested his next withdrawal announcement will convey.

While implying he does not yet have "all the facts and figures" on which to make his final decision, Nixon pledged the new pullout "will be at least at the level that we have been going through withdrawals up to this point."

If Nixon chooses to carry this 12,500-man-a-month average rate forward another six months, he could lower the total U.S. troop commitment to about 263,000 men by fall.

He could speed up the rate somewhat and drop the U.S. total below 200,000 over a six-month span.

that would represent a reduction of more than 60 per cent from the Vietnam war peak of 543,000 in April 1969, shortly before Nixon started the long pullout process.

In his televised interview Monday night, Nixon refused to be pinned to a definite deadline for withdrawal.

The President appeared to cut some of the ground from under Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird, who last week

Experimental Program for Deaf Children

By BILL SIMMONS
Associated Press Writer

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — With the aid of $65,000 in state funds, an experimental program is contemplated for El Dorado to test whether hearing - handicapped children can develop speech and language.

State Sen. W. D. Moore Jr. and state Rep. Joe K. Mahoney II, both of El Dorado, sponsored the legislation that paved the way for the two-year pilot project.

Gov. Dale Bumpers has expressed support for the proposed program, which would be administered under the El Dorado School Board through arrangements with the state Education Department.

On March 3, Bumpers signed a bill authorizing the project and two days later the governor signed the bill to appropriate $38,000 in 1971-72 and $31,000 in 1972-73 to pay for it.

The governor's support for the plan was based largely on a proposal drafted by Dr. Ralph Kirkman, professor of higher education at Peabody College and consultant to an El Dorado clinic for hearing-handicapped children.

Dr. Reuben Setliff, physician of the clinic, says he has high hopes for the experimental project because of success he has seen in a similar program conducted in his clinic by his wife, Gale, an audiologist, and Miss Joan Beck, a speech pathologist.

The clinic's program has operated for almost two years. It has about 20 children between the ages of 2 and 5½. Setliff says they believe that 75 per cent of the group will be able to attend schools with children who hear normally.

"Some of them have deafness just as bad as anybody you'll ever see," he said.

Setliff believes the keys to helping a "deaf" youngster obtain the ability of speech and language are:

— Early diagnosis, preferably prior to the age of two.

— Proper amplification through a hearing aid.

Application of techniques to encourage development of speech and language.

"It is now known with certainty that you do not have to have normal hearing to develop normal patterns of speech and language," he said.

The person who is totally deaf is a medical rarity, Setliff said, adding, "It can be assumed that a hearing - handicapped child has usable hearing until prove otherwise."

Kirkman, the Setliffs and a number of other El Dorado citizens have chartered a corporation and hope to conduct the pilot project, on a nonprofit basis, under contract with the school board.

Their approach, like his own clinic, would not utilize lip-reading, sign language, finger-spelling "or any other method to encourage the child to adapt to his handicap," Setliff said.

indicated a long range goal of reducing the U.S. commitment in Vietnam below 50,000 men by late next year.

But associates of Laird disputed this, saying the Pentagon chief and the President are both on record against fixing "a date certain" for total U.S. withdrawal.

They contended the President was talking in those terms Monday night, and his words did not repudiate Laird's timetable for a reduction to the below-50,000 level.

interviewer Howard K. Smith of the American Broadcasting Co., "the operation was worthwhile as far as we are concerned."

Bearing down on critics, Nixon took sharp exception to a burgeoning congressional move by mostly Democratic antiwar members to call for withdrawal of all Americans from Vietnam by a fixed date.

That would give all the advantages to Hanoi, Nixon argued, and might lead to American involvement in a future war.

And although the President declined to discuss politics directly, he hinted in very broad terms he has every intention of seeking a second term in 1972.

As for the political future of Vice President Spiro T. Agnew, Nixon said he has made no decision on "whoever may be the man who runs for vice president" on next year's GOP ticket.

Smith, thinking perhaps about Secretary of the Treasury John B. Connally, had asked if the President might consider a Democrat as a running mate.

Southeast Asia was the dominant theme throughout the relaxed session broadcast from the White House library.

Interestingly, there was no discussion of the Middle East or of relations with the Soviet Union, and domestic problems were mentioned only briefly.

The President urged congressional approval of his revenue-sharing, welfare-reform and government-reorganization plans.

While Nixon spoke glowingly about the conduct of the South Vietnamese army in Laos, he cautioned that "whether this operation is going to be labeled a success or a failure" cannot be judged for many weeks, perhaps months. The goals, he said, are long range. He went on:

"I will say this: My interim assessment ... is this: as far as our withdrawal is concerned, it is assured. The next withdrawal announcement will be made in April. It will be at least at the number that I have been withdrawing over the past few months; and, second, as far as the danger to the American forces remaining, particularly in the northern part of South Vietnam ... that danger has been substantially reduced."

Cavett Show About SST Is Canceled

NEW YORK (AP) — The American Broadcasting Co. says it canceled a scheduled debate on the supersonic transport on Monday night's Dick Cavett Show after the White House complained that SST opponents had received undue time on the program.

Cavett had invited Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., a leader of the SST opposition, and SST project manager William Magruder to debate the issue on his late-night ABC talk show.

An ABC spokesman said Magruder appeared alone after a White House spokesman called Cavett's producers and said the show may have violated the Federal Communications Commission's fairness doctrine.

Last week the House voted to cut off further developments funds for the administration-backed SST and a key vote on the issue is scheduled in the Senate Wednesday.

Merger Bill
Introduction
Expected

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Gov. Dale Bumpers said Monday that he expected the administration's bill to merge the University of Arkansas with Arkansas AM&N College probably would be introduced today in the General Assembly.

The governor said he believed the measure would be satisfactory to AM&N board members.

Bumpers made the announcement at a news conference in his office. With the governor were two AM&N officials, Dr. Lawrence A. Davis, president, and Van Johnson, coach.

Davis said he believed the bill satisfied most of the objections that had been raised against a previous merger proposal, HB 608 by Rep. Boyce Alford of Pine Bluff. Alford's bill has been approved by the House and is pending in the Senate, but passage is improbable.

Alford's bill had brought a storm of protest from AM&N students and Davis stated publicly that he had not agreed to Alford's plan.

Bumpers told newsmen that discussions began about three months ago about the possibility of a merger. He said that since then he had been impressed with "the sincerity and good intentions on all sides" of those who participated in the merger talks. He described his own role as that of a mediator.

D.C. Voters to Elect a Congressman

WASHINGTON (AP) — The national capital votes today in its first congressional election in nearly a century with the candidates ranging from the usual Democratic and Republican nominees to a black nationalist and an acknowledged homosexual.

Democrat Walter E. Fauntroy was considered the favorite for the nonvoting delegate post to the House. The 37-year-old minister is a Negro in a town where 71 per cent of the population is black and where registered Democrats outnumber Republicans six-to-one.

Fauntroy has drawn the endorsement in recent days from black Reps. John Conyers and Charles C. Diggs, both D-Mich., Jesse Jackson, director of the Chicago-based Operation Breadbasket, and Coretta King, widow of the slain civil rights leader Dr. Martin Luther King.

A record 260,244 voters are eligible to indicate their preference for one of the six candidates. The winner must collect 40 per cent of the vote to escape a runoff.

Candidates besides Fauntroy are Republican John A. Nevius, independent Julius Hobson, Rev. Douglas Moore, a black nationalist, Socialist Workers party candidate James Harris, and independent Dr. Franklin E. Kameny, who is running on a freedom for homosexuals platform.

The winner will be Washington's first elected representative in Capitol Hill since 1875, when Congress eliminated the post.

The new congressman will receive office space, a staff and a $42,500 per year salary. He will vote in committee, take part in debate on the floor and introduce legislation but will not be able to vote in House floor action.

General Gets Rid of 2nd
President

BUENOS AIRES (AP) — Lt. Gen. Alejandro Lanusse ousted one president of Argentina who opposed the return of elective government, and during the night he got rid of another one for the same reason.

This time Lanusse got the better of President Roberto Levingston in the latest power struggle within the military clique that has ruled Argentina since 1966. Lanusse and the other two service chiefs declared themselves a ruling junta again and said "representative democracy" was their goal.

Lanusse, 52, overthrew President Juan Carlos Onganía last June after accusing him of increasingly autocratic and authoritarian methods. Onganía had appointed Lanusse, a personal friend, commander of the army in 1968, and for some months he was considered a check against anti-Onganía officers in the army. But he became critical of the president's failure to make good on his promise to hold elections.

Lanusse was born in Buenos Aires in August 1918. A member of Argentina's landowning aristocracy, he graduated from the National Military Academy in 1938.

He is a Roman Catholic and the father of nine children.

Dictator Juan D. Peron imprisoned him in 1951 after an unsuccessful attempt to topple Peron. When Peron was overthrown in 1955 and replaced by Gen. Eduardo Lonardi, Lanusse was freed, promoted to lieutenant colonel and made commander of the presidential guard.

In that post he was instrumental in deposing Lonardi a few months later. Another general, Pedro Aramburu, became president, and he handed

Reporter on Spot, Says
Howard Smith

NEW YORK (AP) — Howard K. Smith said after his televised interview with President Nixon Monday night that such a live session puts the reporter "on the spot."

"You have to travel a thin line of asking hard questions without being rude to the chief of state," Smith said. "It's awfully hard."

Smith's interview with Nixon on ABC was the first time a single newsmen had interviewed an incumbent president on live television in prime time.

When he learned three weeks ago that he would do the interview, Smith began going over past speeches by Nixon and called some senators and others to help him with questions. He prepared 50 questions, but got to ask only about 20, because the President "wanted to talk most about Laos."

"It's really his show," Smith said in a telephone interview from his home in Maryland afterward. "You've got to let him have his way. There is no way to stop him."

He said he had hoped to get to such other topics as the Middle East, pollution and revenue-sharing, and to further develop the question of the relations between Congress and the executive branch.

Tuesday, March 23, 1971 over the nation's leadership to a constitutionally elected president, Arturo Frondizi, in 1958. Lanusse was not a member of the junta that ousted Frondizi in 1962. However, he did take part along with Onganía in the coup that deposed Arturo Illia. Frondizi's elected successor, on June 28, 1966.
